Second Diary Of Murdered Beauty Gives New Clues

New Diary Of Mary Faith
Full Details Of Her Death (Continued)

NEW YORK, June 13.—A second diary of Mary Faith, New York beauty found dead on a bench last Monday, today was in the possession of District Attorney John N. Edwards of Nassau county, who claims the girl was murdered.

Beyond the fact that the new diary named more men with whom she was friendly and that it strengthened his belief that she was brutally killed and her body thrown into the sea, Edwards withheld comment. But it was hinted a new clue to the mystery was revealed in the second diary.

Discover Diary.

Detectives searching the lavishly furnished Greenwich Village apartment from which Starr disappeared eight days ago, discovered the diary while Edwards was placing the case of the girl's death before a grand jury at Mineola, Long Island. That considerable importance was attached by investigators to the new find was evidenced when Inspector Harold R. King, chief of Nassau county detectives, rushed the diary to Edwards by airplane. The district attorney had left for a short vacation at Riverhead, Long Island, and a plane was used to transport the second book to him.

Stanley E. Faithfull, manufacturing chemist, who is the step-father of the dead girl, added a new mystery to the case immediately after the new diary was reported found.

Closing operations between Edinburg and Millville and between West Pittsburgh and the Wampum road are terminated this week by the Pennsylvania State Highway Department. There are no new detours in the district on the Edinburg road this week, which is to be found posted in the lobby of The News.

The road between Sheep Hill and West Pittsburgh, which is widely traveled by employees of the E. & O. railroad, Standard Sanitary Paper, and other plants below the city, has been recently scraped and is in fair condition. Those who use the road are anxiously awaiting word as to when the promised improvements on the road will be started by the State. They state that, although the road is in fair condition now, the dust is very annoying.

Bessemer Community Garden Project Largest In County; 35 Acres Under Cultivation

Chief of Police A. A. Shoup of Bessemer, who is supervising a Bessemer Club garden project for the unemployed, ordered 7,500 tomato, cabbage and pepper plants while in New Castle yesterday. The plants were paid for by residents of Bessemer. They were delivered Friday afternoon to workers in the garden plots, who were eagerly waiting their arrival.

Bessemer has the largest garden tract in one plot to be found anywhere in the county. The land, 35 acres, was donated by the Bessemer Limestone and Cement Company. Citizens raised money to plow the land. It was done with a tractor and nicely harrowed. To Chief of Police Shoup was given the job of laying out the plot and apportioning to the unemployed.

This was no small task, as Mr. Shoup soon found out. He first divided up the size of the plots and then figured out that nearly one hundred plots could be made out of the 35 acres. His next step was to secure stakes and signs, and lay out the plots. In this work he was very ably assisted by Justice of the Peace, J. R. Chaney.

Even before the land was plowed applications came from the unemployed for garden plots. By the time it was staked out every one was taken, and there were still applications for more. Fortunately the ground which has been donated is rich and mellow. There is every indication that it will raise a bumper crop of garden truck.

When a News reporter visited the garden plot Friday evening he found over one hundred persons, actively engaged in setting out the cabbage, tomato and pepper plants which had arrived during the afternoon, and also in planting potatoes, beans, corn and peas.

Whole families, consisting of six or seven persons were at work on some of the plots. All seemed to be enjoying the work. Some had chalk lines and were laying out the rows with mathematical precision. The spirit of good natured rivalry was manifest. Every person seemed to want to have the best laid out plot.

The advantage of having a big tract like this one could be readily seen. The human family is gregarious. It likes to work together. More interest is taken in contiguous plots.

Taxi Drivers In Pittsburgh Are Again On Strike

Pittsburgh Streets Devoid
Of Taxi Cabs Today As Drivers Strike

CAB OPERATORS REMAIN SILENT

Refusal Of Non-Union
Workers Believed Cause
For Strike

International News Service
PITTSBURGH, June 13.—Pittsburgh streets today were devoid of taxis as all drivers for the Pittsburgh Transportation, owner of the two cabs serving the city, were ordered out on strike at 2 o'clock this morning.

Heeding the call of Fred Schaffer, business agent for the cab-drivers union, drivers on the streets at the zero hour started up their cabs and drove the vehicles to the two main garages of the company. Drivers did not appear at the garages to pilot their cabs at the beginning of the day shift.

While cab driving officials and officers of the union refused to issue statements, it was generally believed that the strike resulted from the gradual infiltration of non-union workers into the union cab drivers ranks.

Refuse Statements

Rumors of the strike had been current for several months but each scheduled walkout was called off at the last moment on the bases of temporary agreements with cab company officials.

Union officials said that the company planned to place 150 taxicabs in storage due to the lack of patronage. Efforts to forestall this action were believed to have failed, although union officials refused to reveal the result of conferences held with company officials.

The taxicab strike last year resulted in widespread rioting, bloodshed and the loss of one life. Pittsburgh streets at that time resembled trench warfare scenes as helmeted drivers rode their vehicles through barrages of bricks and stones in an attempt to break the strike.

Thieves Crash Store Windows

Two Moravia Street Store
Windows Looted During Night

THREE MEN SEEN NEAR ROBBERY

Large plate glass windows of two Moravia street stores were crashed in early this morning with missiles, believed to be bricks, and loot taken consisting of articles on display in the windows. The damage done in the matter of plate glass windows destroyed is greater than the goods taken. Indications are that no effort was made in either case to break into the stores themselves, which would have been comparatively easy after smashing the front windows of the stores.

The stores where the windows were crashed and the robberies perpetrated were those of A. Shapiro, 1227 Moravia street, and J. Aronson, 1293 Moravia street. The authorities discovered the robbery at the latter place while investigating the robbery at the other place.

Three front plate glass windows of the Shapiro store were found smashed. These lights of glass were 5 by 7 feet in size and quite expensive. The plate glass window broken at the Aronson store was 7 by 9 feet in size.

After breaking the windows at the Shapiro store, the thieves took six pairs of shoes, two suits, men's silk union suits, two men's shirts, two sweaters, two pair pants, 4 B. V. D. suits and two boys' blouses. Bricks evidently used in smashing these windows were found in the store.

While investigating the Shapiro robbery, the officers found that a front window plate glass in the Aronson store had also been smashed. Five watches and display case in which they were located were taken.

Jameson Hospital Nurses' Class Is Graduated Friday

Exercises Take Place At

Last Night

ADDRESS IS MADE BY DR. TEAGARDEN

Diplomas Are Presented By Fred L. Rentz Of Hospital Board

Seven young women joined the Army of Registered Nurses Friday evening, June 12, when the second annual commencement exercises of the Jameson Memorial Hospital School of Nursing were held in the auditorium of the First Christian Church. Days and nights of arduous training were forgotten as each of the new nurses walked across the rostrum and received from the hands of Fred L. Rentz, the precious document that guaranteed to "the world the proficiency of the owner of it, in helping men and women back to health."

It was not a large class, nor a long program, but the dignity of the occasion was such that the graduates could not have helped being impressed, as were the spectators. Here were seven more women dedicating their lives to the service of mankind, saying by their presence there, that they were now prepared and willing to face disease in any form, in order that some unfortunate might be given a helping hand back to health and strength.

Auditorium Well Filled

The evening was unusually warm even for June, but despite this fact the auditorium was well filled with friends of the graduates and of the hospital. At eight thirty, the organ swelled into a processional march and the undergraduates of 1932 marched in, followed by their seniors of a year, the class of 1933. Then the graduating class, each with a corsage at her belt, each one garbed as though ready to enter a case.

The invocation was pronounced by Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian Church and the address (Continued On Page Two)

FEDERAL DRY MEN ARE QUITE ACTIVE

End Of Long Reign Of Capone As Chicago Racketeer Is Seen

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, June 13.—Verifying the scope of Al Capone's gang activities in providing beer in amounts beyond the imagination, a federal indictment charging Capone and 63 henchmen with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law today was seen as the end of the reign of America's biggest gangster.

Five thousand offenses are charged in the indictment over a period of 10 years and if the case is proved, the government officers said dissolution of the Capone gang was inevitable. The prosecution estimated that his huge breweries had a daily output of 75,000 worth of beer which would amount to the enormous total of $200,000,000, three-fourths of which was probably clear profit.

The 5,000 offenses charged in the indictment each represent a unit. The manufacture of 1,500 gallons of beer, or a delivery until of 30 barrels, a truckload. This would indicate that the Capone syndicate had manufactured 7,500,000 gallons of beer and delivered 150,000 barrels of it since 1921.

Each of the defendants faces two years imprisonment if found guilty and a fine of $10,000. On top of this, Capone is now on bond under charges carrying 32 years in prison and $50,000 fines for income tax evasion and a six months sentence for contempt of court.

None of Al's co-defendants have been widely publicized and are va-lon keepers, brewery hands, liquor runners and "muscle men."

Chief among them are Joe Fusco.

dress of welcome by Fred L. Rentz followed.

"This is a most inspiring sight," said Mr. Rentz. "Here in front of me are young women who have chosen a career of service to mankind, who are willing to face disease and death in order to help humanity. This graduating class started their training in the old Shenango Valley Hospital, where the facilities were modern, where their training was handicapped because of this, and where service was rendered under difficulties."

"They are graduating from a splendid institution, the Jameson Memorial Hospital, equipped with every device known to modern science, where the profession of healing is made much easier, and where nurses can be trained to better combat the ravages of disease. I congratulate this class of seven upon their courage in entering the nursing profession, upon their records as students, and upon the wonderful opportunities of service that now present themselves."

The address to the graduating class was delivered by Dr. Florence Teagarden, associate professor of psychology in the University of Pittsburgh. A psychologist by profession, her address dwelt more upon the opportunities of nurses in dealing with human emotions than with the physiological side of the profession.

"When we understand the motivating influence back of people and their actions, we can understand those actions better," said Dr. Teagarden. "When we know the background of prominent people we can understand better their reactions to life. Strike Zone Quiet
The strike zone was quiet today in the wake of a small disorder incident to the movement of strikers into the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal company at New Kensington when three men were cut and bruised as strikers stoned a railroad car at the mine siding.

The three injured men were taken to the citizens General hospital at New Kensington. They are George Dubolic, Kinloch, and Edward Molecki and John Kolye, both of Parnassus. Window in the car, which was stoned, was shattered when 250 strikers directed a volley of stones at the strikebreakers. The demonstration was broken up by state troopers.

Mrs. James Shaw, 25, and Mrs. Joseph Grice, 36 were committed to jail in lieu of a $5 fine imposed following their arrest for failure to heed state police orders to leave property of the Wildwood mine of the Butler Consolidated Coal company.

Prior to the meeting, Fagan said threats had been made trouble would result if any attempt was made to hold the meeting. He charged the disturbance to the National Miners' Union.

"It was a brutal, cowardly attack," Fagan declared. "Men with blackjacks invaded the gathering from the rear. It was a deliberate attempt to break up our meeting but it was held. We intend to cause the arrest of the men who made the attack and will prosecute them to the limit."

Glimmer of Hope
TARENTUM, Pa., June 13.—First glimmer of hope pointing toward settlement of the present bituminous coal strike came today with verification by officials of the Creighton Fuel company, at Creighton, near here, that an agreement had been signed with the United Mine Workers of America permitting the return to work of 125 striking miners.

The agreement was concluded late yesterday by officials of the coal company and officers of the union. It was learned today. The 125 miners, employed on the summer schedule, the company were to meet this afternoon to decide upon the date and time for their return to work.

Miners at the Creighton mine had been on strike since last Tuesday when they joined the general walk-out.

Under the terms of the new agreement, wages scales in existence at the Creighton mine for the past year will be continued for an indefinite time. Wages under the scale are: machine loading, 58c per ton; pick loading, 74c per ton; cutting, 12c per ton; day labor, minimum wage for 8 hours, $4.75; inside day labor, minimum wage for 8 hours, $4.60 and outside day labor, minimum wage for 8 hours, $4.20.

It was reported to International News Service that the Creighton agreement is a temporary contract dependent upon obtaining similar agreements from other mines in the Allegheny valley, especially the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal company, at Kinloch, scene of violent disorders last night. The United Mine Workers charged with the task of bringing other operators into line with the Creighton agreement and stabilizing the situation in the Allegheny valley district.

MURDERED BEAUTY GIVES NEW CLUES

Faithfull, who at first denied that Starr kept any diaries, told reporters that "something very important" was about to break.

Adds Mystery.
Standing in front of his apartment in the same block where May Walker resides, Faithfull said: "Something important—tremendously important—and something I've been hoping could be avoided, is going to take place at Mineola in the morning. I can't tell anyone about it now."

Faithfull then retreated into his home, declining to comment further. He refused to answer a question as to whether he "did not mean Tuesday morning"—when the grand jury will resume.

Faithfull denied he knew anything about the second diary.

It was reported that the second volume was written by Starr and related right up to the time the 25-year-old girl disappeared.

King said the new diary substantiated further the theory that Starr Faithfull was a murder victim and did not die by drowning.

The first diary of the girl, termed "unprintable" was placed in the grand jurors at Mineola yesterday. Its contents were kept secret.

New Details Given.

LONDON, June 13.—New vivid details of the strange love life of Starr Faithfull, beautiful New York murder victim, were unfolded here today as several persons recalled her adventures in the British capital.

Infatuated with a man who did not return her affections, the cultured beauty attempted to commit suicide in the London hotel, according to the London Daily Express, and was saved from death only by the fact that the large quantity of gin she had consumed prior to the attempt acted as an antidote.

The newspaper published a lengthy interview with the physician said to have treated the girl on that occasion. The attempt, it was said, took place at the Greyfriars hotel in Finsbury Square, London.

"I received a telephone call from Greyfriars hotel asking me to come at once," the physician was quoted as saying. "I found the door of Miss Faithfull's room broken open. She was lying in a state of coma under the influence of a narcotic."

Took Drug.
"I treated the girl for a long time administering strychnine and other restoratives until the stimulated heart action gradually brought her back to consciousness. She then made a rambling statement about making an enormous amount of gin after which she had gone to bed and taken 24 tablets of a drug she had purchased at a chemist's shop."

This quantity, the physician declared, would have been more than sufficient to kill any person in a normal state, but added that "the liquor doubtless proved an antidote."

"I saw her three times the next day," the physician continued, "and asked her why she had taken the tablets."

"She replied: 'I have nothing to live for now; someone has let me down very badly.' I gathered that she meant some man, but I did not get his name."

"Miss Faithfull struck me as the type of person who would try anything once."

Diary is Revolving.
Further details of Miss Faithfull's amazing "diary," which was discovered by J. R. Bissett, manager of the Golden Cross hotel, when her baggage was seized during one visit to London for lack of funds, were revealed today. The diary was believed to be the same one now being

FLAG DAY TOMORROW

ALTHOUGH you may never think much about it, the fact is you often forget three of your greatest benefactors.

First your city: Well, the city educates you, sends engines to put out the flames if your house is on fire; city police try to protect you from thieves. All this and much more.

Then, your state: You travel in safety over fine roads built over mountains; you may if you please enroll as a student in a college kept open by the state; under her friendly laws if you are injured at your work you will be recompensed.

And finally your nation: If you travel in China, and bandits seize you, the United States will send a man-of-war over the ocean to demand your release. And if you are lost in the heart of Africa, the president will call on the navy to steam 3000 miles, send ashore the active young men called soldiers of the sea, who will open the door of your prison where the savages hold you; then bring you back to your native land—all without price, all because you are a citizen of the United States of America.

This day, salute the flag and be glad that you are born in the land of the free and the home of the brave.

You may be a busy man, too busy for your own good. But you ought to have these things called to your attention.

Next to your father and your mother, respect and cherish your city, your state and your nation—and the flag is the symbol of all three.

BILLBOARD BAN UPHELD

The Massachusetts supreme judicial court has affirmed the principle, previously enunciated in many other jurisdictions, that "beauty in the sense intended and employed in the framing and administration of the rules and regulations (governing billboards) has in fact a real and substantial economic value to the commonwealth and to its citizens."

This judicial opinion was given in actions brought to restrain highway authorities from enforcing laws regulating erection and maintenance of signboards along highways and in public parks. It sustains the right of the state to keep this form of advertising out of sight of natural parks and 50 feet from any public way and to bar signs from any place where, in its judgment, having regard to health, safety, fire hazard or scenic beauty, they would be harmful to the public welfare.

Once more the courts have given human rights precedence over property rights. They have safeguarded the right of the public to unobstructed and unblemished highways and to nature's beauty uncorrupted by the greed of man.

Property rights must be considered, but destruction or obscuration of the scenery that borders the country's highways is a dear price to pay for the gain accruing to a few from unrestricted outdoor advertising.

ON GETTING ALONG

Every community has its members who can not get along with their fellow citizens. Many offices, stores and factories have persons on the staff who are incompatible with their fellow workers. Every man and woman knows somebody he or she "can't bear."

No two persons are alike, and every nation and race has traits peculiar to itself. Sometimes the point of disagreement is opinion, such as religious, race or national prejudice. Between individuals attitude, habits, personality and tastes may be the cause for dislike. Sometimes people disgust others and often they even anger their fellows. Women are said to be even more prone to take personal dislikes to others than are men, but among men there is often heard the remark, "if it wasn't for the law."

But this is a large world and one person has no more right to it than another. Since it is no longer feasible to lead the life of a recluse or hermit or to retire to the recesses of a monk's monastic cell, people must learn to conquer their dislikes and aversions. It isn't easy and it isn't pleasant, but it is frequently necessary. Workmen have been successful in abolishing many undesirable working conditions, but they have never evolved a sure method of ridding themselves of undesirable working companions.

People make life easier and sweeter for themselves by seeing the one good trait in the person who has a dozen bad traits.

WHAT HE'LL FIND

If it finds news Secretary of State Stimson is going to Europe after he will find plenty of what city editors call red-hot spot news, says the Providence Evening Bulletin.

He will find the Franco-Italian naval deadlock still unbroken. He will find statesmen openly pessimistic over the prospects of a successful disarmament conference. He will find a general cynical attitude toward international conferences for peace and order when, behind the scenes, each nation is pulling and hauling for its own.

He will find a Europe fearful of the Russian threat. He will find Mussolini in a grave internal dispute with the Holy See. He will find Germany in economic and political distress. He will find the Danubian nations in a state of bewilderment over their agrarian problems. He will find France still with supreme faith in the need of security, determined to maintain the status quo of Europe as defined by peace treaties and insistent upon continental hegemony. He will find Great Britain battling with her own pressing problems and, at the same time, trying to bring the continent to its senses.

He will find Europe divided by a series of tariff ramparts. He will find everybody shouting to lower the tariff walls, meaning thereby the next fellow. He will find a virulent nationalism, intensified and widened by the war. He will find a continent playing politics so furiously that American politics will be like a gentlemen's game of ping-pong.

He will find out these things and a lot more because there's a lot happening in Europe these days.

You Don't Want an Easy Life
I Thought I Did
"Homesickness for the Front"

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Don't tell me you want to Take Things Easy.

I know better, and so do you. You may say you want an Easy Life, but down deep inside of you, you really don't want anything of the sort. You want action, you want excitement, you want to be doing things, you're not happy unless something is happening.

I'm an old soldier and I know about these things. I'm a gossiping old soldier and I like to talk about the past. And I remember the time I left the front on leave just before a bad attack, and got so homesick I went back up there two days ahead of time. . . . It sounds silly, but I did it.

I was just an average soldier. I was lazy and I groused. I didn't keep my uniform clean. I didn't shave often enough. I wasted government property. I hated officers, and particularly generals. I sneered at patriots and I didn't want to be killed. . . . And when I got my leave, I felt lucky. The other fellows would be catching hot shot, but I'd be far away on the sunny Mediterranean shores sleeping late in a good bed, eating comfortably and well, staring at the pretty, pretty girls. And they'd be envying me!

Well, it was like that for a few days, until the newspaper reports began to come in. . . . The sunny south was all I'd dreamed. I slept thirteen hours the first night. I ate a seven-course dinner. I sat for five hours in front of a cafe. I swam in the sea and lay on the sand. What could be sweeter? What a lucky break for me! I was so far away from the front that I couldn't even hear the thunder of the guns. It was hell up there and I was in heaven. They got restless. All this seemed hollow. The people didn't seem alive. They seemed greasy and shallow and selfish. And suddenly it seemed cheap and worthless so far from the front and I felt like an awful bum. I wasn't happy. I couldn't enjoy myself or anything else any more. . . . I was homesick for the front—and at last I had to admit it!

So I packed my things and went back—two days ahead of time. In fact I sneaked back shamefaced. I didn't admit I'd been homesick for the front. I said I'd run out of money and had come "home" because I was broke and I didn't tell anybody how miserable I'd been and how nice it was to be back. But I certainly did feel relieved!

And that's why I know you don't want to take things easy. I didn't. You don't. Human beings aren't made that way.

ON READING

Does your happiness depend too much upon other people?

Are you uneasy and discontented when you are alone?

Within yourself do you seem not to be able to interest or amuse yourself in anything?

You must have the association with others, irrespective of whether their society is beneficial to you or otherwise.

None should be lonely if it is possible to procure books.

You have missed a lot if you have neglected the reading habit.

One of the most pitiful persons was one who stated that at the time in his life had he cared for reading.

Reaching the age limit where he was employed, he retired.

He wandered around—was disconsolate.

Asked why he did not spend some leisure in reading he replied that he had never in all his life become interested in a book or magazine.

No special cronies-time on his hands—life was a bore to him.

He admitted that death would be a happy release.

This man, in fairly good health, enough money to meet his wants, and wishing to die because he could not amuse himself, should set you thinking.

EMPTY HOUSE

The little house that seemed so gay. Looks very desolate today.

The windows, which last week were fair.

Have taken on a ghastly stare.

No children round the doorway shout.

Gone is the dog that raced about.

Already now the garden there is suffering from a lack of care.

When'er an empty house I pass I think how dull are stone and glass.

And roof and walls and doorways gay.

When uninhabited they stay.

To keep their beauty they require The loving hands which never tire.

There must be happy souls within Or swift destruction will begin.

All doors and window panes are dull Unless life makes them beautiful.

When gracious tenants move away Not long the house will lovely stay.

There must be laughter and delight To keep a lawn and garden bright.

And all that human hands supply, Or houses, just like people, die.

Dear Hints and Dints: One of our contemporary novelists said this: "Love in the fullness of its strength weighs not, measures not, pours out its full treasure with no reckoning of volume. When it begins to check and balance against itself it is lapsing into decay."

If that is true, nine tenths of the married men after the first year of marriage have ceased to love their wives. After being married for a few years love comes to be a habit, something a woman craves, and something a man has thrust into the background, only to be revived at certain intervals. Other interests have a greater hold upon him; they come first, and love comes when there isn't something that is more pressing. A man has business interests and business friends that claim his attention to the exclusion of his wife. She comes to be merely a figurehead, something to humor and pet when it is absolutely necessary. He thinks of love as being exclusively feminine; it is a woman's nature to do all the loving and make the advances. He tolerates it, and makes a half-hearted effort to please her. He thinks that is all that is necessary and immediately thereafter forgets it and puts his mind on something else. But ask him about his wife. "Man, I have the best little wife that ever lived. ## Tariff Action By Canadians Arouses Conflicting Views

Adverse Effect On This Country Is Accepted As Fact But Retaliation Is Matter Of Dispute And Reciprocity Possibilities Are Discussed

Increase of Canadian tariff rates are believed by most Americans to be damaging to the export business of the United States. The charge that the Dominion is retaliating American tariffs is a matter of debate, the more favorable attitude being that Canada is merely following the example of the United States in protecting its own producers. Between the two interpretations of the motives involved is the suggestion that Canada may be establishing the scientific basis for reciprocity.

"Motives need not be impugned, but the international consequences of governmental policies and actions must be considered, and frankly pointed out," advises the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, which holds that "certainly it does not lie in the mouths of the Smoots and other champions of high protection to complain of Canada's many notable increases of duties or of the preference extended to the products of Great Britain and other British dominions, and that any country entitled to help itself to 'reciprocity tariffs.' As to the Canadian attitude, The News remarks: 'It is perfectly clear that the Bennett government is going to build up Canada industrially at the cost of producers in this country, so far as it can contrive to do so,' recalling that 'Mr. Bennett, when in opposition, demanded a brick for brick tariff policy.'"

"A difference in point of view is mentioned by the SEATTLE DAILY TIMES, which states that 'it has been our purpose to impose tariff duties that would offset the cheaper labor in foreign countries,' but suggests that 'just now our neighbors to the northward are greatly embarrassed over the campaign to promote the Produced-in-Canada movement.' The Times contends that 'while Premier Bennett's tariff policy is in a measure retaliatory, we cannot criticize Canada for adopting a plan that has worked well in the United States,' and concludes that 'since the new tariff schedules impose higher rates on many articles that Canada does not produce at home, there can be no pretense that the tariff is intended wholly to foster home industry.'"

The TORONTO DAILY STAR, reviewing the legislation on this side of the border, remarks that economists in this country 'find that in looking imports of the United States and the exports are being locked in,' and offers the comment: 'It is at this time, with high tariffs failing into disrepute in the United States and everywhere in the world, that Canada joins with the United States in a policy that provokes hostility and reprisals.' The Hawley-Smoot-Bennett policy is coming in for worldwide condemnation as causing the ports of the world to be choked with idle ships and warehouses the world over to be piled to the roof with unsaleable products of the field and the factory. It does not take long, when all nations refuse to buy for all nations to reach the point where they are unable to sell. During the entire period when the Mackenzie King administration was in office the Conservative opposition charged that all countries but Canada were raising tariffs since the war. They were all doing it and the consequences of what they were doing have now reached their full effect. Canada, almost alone in refraining from adopting this disastrous course, has now done so—and has done so just at the time when all the countries are discovering how disastrous their course was and how necessary it is to get back to the wise plan of encouraging world trade instead of blocking and preventing it at every turn."

"Out of the welter of words," remarks the LYNCHBURG NEWS, "one fact stands out. The new Canadian tariff rates will injure business in this country, and whether that was the intention in retaliation for our injury to Canadian business, or whether the increases are purely domestic in their purpose, there is nothing the United States can do about it except to propose reciprocity."

"In connection with the idea of reciprocity," proposes the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, "there might be considered the fact that the United States has more capital invested in Canada than in any other foreign country. In industry across the border Americans have about two billion dollars at work. This money is in factories, mines, public utilities and every kind of commercial enterprise. Behind this great investment there is a rich fund of confidence and good will which statesmen of both countries should be careful not to disturb whether through tariffs or other measures. In the circumstances that have arisen, leaders on both sides of the border may well give serious thought to a plan of trade reciprocity promising mutual advantage."

"The Dominion's action," in the judgment of the HARTFORD DAILY TIMES, "may well inspire economic heart searching on both sides of the border as to the soundness of policies which run counter to all suggestions of reciprocity, universally considered but very lightly practiced as the soil of successful barter." The DAYTON NEWS-STAR paints the picture: "We hit a good friend in the eye, blinding it. He hits us back in the eye, blinding it. Net results of two enemies where once were two friends."

"The tariff," as analyzed by the FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM "is one of the inventions of trade that more nearly resembles the boomerang than any other primitive weapon." More specifically, that paper comments: "The new

Volant College Alumni To Meet Wednesday, June 24

Noted Graduates And Former Students Of Institution
To Speak

Annual gathering of the alumni and former students of Volant College will this year be an event of Wednesday, June 24 at Volant on the campus of the former college, the reunion always being held on the last Wednesday of June.

Anticipation of the committee in charge this year is that the group of graduates and former students with their families and former residents of Volant who will join in on the affair, will be larger than in previous years and that the reunion will be one long to be remembered by all so fortunate as to be in attendance.

Lunch will be served at noon by the Women's Missionary Society of the Volant Presbyterian church. The program of the afternoon will include short addresses by former students of the college, who have gained prominence in the Educational, religious and legal professions. Among these speakers will be Dr. C. G. Jordan, Judge L. T. Farr, Judge James A. Chambers and many others.

The committee in active charge of the arrangements consists of the officers of the Alumni Association, Alex. M. McNahy, president, Miss Mary Minahan, the secretary, Mrs. Maude McCracken, the treasurer, and R. H. Perry, chairman of the Memory Book Committee.

Invitations to be sent to out of town members can be obtained from Mrs. Scott Hamilton, who has charge of that feature of the event.

One big feature of the reunion this year will be the sample of the Memory Book that has been prepared by C. B. Galbreath, state librarian at Columbus, O. A. A. Galbreath and Dean Bowman of Mt. Union college. It will be displayed and the Alumni given an opportunity of registering for the delivery of one of the copies at the reunion to be held in 1932.

The memory book will record the history of the school and former students and will carry down to posterity a full and complete knowledge of what the school meant to those who attended and to the community in which it was located.

State Highway Patrol Marks

Was Shot

Sergeant Rendt, Corporal Steiner, Patrolmen Lawton and Sarka of the state highway patrol yesterday afternoon erected a memorial tablet to the late Corporal Brady Paul, who was fatally shot by Glenn Dague and Irene Schroeder December 27, 1929. The tablet was placed where Paul fell near the Baldwin place on the New Castle-Butler highway.

The corporal, with Patrolman Ernest Moore, stopped the car in which the two were riding following the robbery of a Butler store. The pair opened fire and Paul was shot fatally and Moore wounded. He recovered.

The slayers were electrocuted for the crime.

Sentence Sermons

By Rev. Roy L. Smith, D. D.

IT IS POOR EDUCATION

That makes any one ashamed of honest toil.

That makes one unwilling to listen to plain men's opinions.

That inspires one man to live off the labor of others.

That offers any youth a substitute for work.

That does not increase one's reverence for a fact.

That makes a man merely argumentative.

That diminishes a man's confidence in the universe he lives in.

Safety Sam Says

Just because you happen to see its tracks is no sign that a train or trolley car has passed.

What is meant by the statement that there should be time no longer? What is the mystery of God that shall be finished? What is the little book that the apostle is commanded to eat? Air-Conditioned
Train Installed
On B. & O. LineService Is Inaugurated Between New York, Baltimore And Washington

First of its kind in the world, the "Columbian," and air-conditioned train, has been placed in service by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, according to local officials of the B. and O.

Complete air purification and temperature control are claimed for this new train, and is considered revolutionary in railway travel. The air is cleaned, all dust, smoke, fumes, cinders, etc., being removed, before it is permitted to circulate through the car. Although the temperature outside may be 100 degrees, the temperature inside every car of the train can be made 15 or more degrees cooler, or whatever may be the proper degree for comfort. This is thermostatically regulated.

Officials of the B. and O. have stated that the Columbian will be the forerunner of similar trains, which will be similarly air-conditioned and put in service on all the principal lines.

The gains were distributed as follows: Main library 34 per cent, South Side 59 per cent, East Side 2 per cent. The losses were Mahoningtown 21 per cent and Jameson hospital 33 per cent.

LOOKING BACK IN NEW CASTLE

For many years residents of this city and county and particularly of the Mt. Jackson district have looked forward each June to the annual vacation of Battery B, famous locally as a military organization and famous for its beyond the confines of Lawrence county due to the valor displayed by its members during the hazardous days of the Civil War. Every year those attending the reunion looked forward to seeing the surviving members at the reunion and each year their numbers grew smaller. David P. Needer the last surviving member of the famous organization has passed on now and this year the reunion will be carried on by the descendants and friends of the former members of the organization. It is well that the work of carrying on this reunion in memory of the deeds of the members in the days of the civil war, should devolve largely on the Earl Watt Post of the American Legion, members of which participated in the World War and many of whom are descendants of the famous battery. Boys in Blue, the Khaki clad boys of the late World War, are also perpetuating their own glorious acts in the country's latest war. Battery B, First Pennsylvania Light Artillery was made up largely of residents of Mt. Jackson and North Beaver township. It joined the Pennsylvania reserves at Tennytown on August 14, 1861 and was assigned to the first brigade. It was in the thickest of the battle at all times and participated in some of the more important battles of the Civil War among them being Mechanicsville, Second Battle of Bull Run, South Mountain, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, the Wilderness, Spotsylvania Court-house and Cold Harbor. During the four years of the war 334 men in all were connected with the battery. In its period of service, 11,200 rounds of ammunition were expended. The battery was mustered out at Harrisburg, June 9, 1865. Monday—Loyal Little Lawrence.

WEEKLY LETTER

Monday, June 15, 1931. The Castleton. 12:15 to 1:30 p. m.

Fellow Rotarian: We had a very interesting talk last week by City Solicitor White. His subject "Trees" was a talk on his hobby and was instructive to all and he gave us a suggestion for constructive work which we hope will be carried out.

Our program for Monday is to be given by a man who has made a hobby of his subject. Mr. Arthur McArthur, a personal friend of James Whitcomb Riley, will speak on "Recollections of James Whitcomb Riley."

Mr. McArthur speaks under the direction of Colliers Weekly and has appeared before many other clubs throughout the country.

The officers appreciate the payment of dues made since the last meeting and would like to be able to close the books next week with all accounts paid in full.

Tom Webber attended Indianapolis Rotary.

Davis Announces
As Candidate For City Treasurer

IVOR V. DAVIS

On September 15th, the Republican voters of New Castle will name their candidate for the office of city treasurer. I am a candidate for that nomination and submit my candidacy upon an experience based upon fifteen years in active business.

While the office of city treasurer is ministerial, rather than executive, no more important office will be filled in the coming elections. It is the treasurer's duty to see that the taxes are collected fairly and impartially that a strict account is kept and that business methods are used in conducting the office.

Lax business methods may result in annoyance to taxpayers an overly large exonerated list and a consequent handicap to the finances of the city. Because of the vital importance to the financial structure of the city administration it is therefore important to the tax payers that the city treasurer should be a man who has had no small experience in handling money and who has had experience in directing a business concern.

If nominated I believe I am qualified to handle the duties of the office. The support of the Republican voters is respectfully asked.

Swimming Pool

By South Side Youngsters

Youngsters of the South Side have started to repair the Big Run dam so that swimming can be enjoyed this summer. Last summer a group got together and erected a dam and throughout the warm days hundreds of children enjoyed swimming down the Big Run creek.

The writer Friday observed several boys starting work on the dam. The heavy rainstorms destroyed the dam and a new one will have to be constructed before swimming can be enjoyed. Many children have already started to swim despite the fact that the water is low.

The boys will likely clean the bottom of the creek so as to assure safety. The South Side Board of Trade may help the kiddies to arrange their home made swimming pool so that the sport of swimming can be enjoyed. The dam is located only a few hundred feet from the two tennis courts which are being erected.

The ladies were entertained by a reading by Mrs. George Lawrence and Mrs. W. E. Ferry. Mrs. I. A. Lytle then told some interesting stories on how some certain hymns were inspired. ## Ask Community Chests To Aid Hoover Program

Secretary Of Commerce Lamont Offers Plan To Assist Unemployed

PLAN NATION-WIDE CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS

MINNEAPOLIS, June 13.—Anticipating that relief needs growing out of the industrial depression will reach a maximum next fall and winter, regardless of the trend of business during the balance of the year, the federal government, through the President's emergency committee for employment, has initiated the most comprehensive mobilization of social welfare and fund-raising resources that has been attempted for any purpose since the war.

The plan, which had been worked out in preliminary conferences in Washington and New York, was formally launched today by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, in an address at the national conference of the national Association of Community Chests and Councils at Lake Minnetonka, near here. Additional details concerning the unemployment situation, and plans for the concerted movement to meet its social consequences, were outlined during the same meeting by Fred C. Croton, acting chairman of the President's committee.

To Assume Responsibility Secretary Lamont disclosed that the Association of Community Chests and Councils, as the organization best equipped to enlist community and local governmental co-operation throughout the country, had been requested to assume responsibility for carrying out the project in co-operation with the President's committee. The first step, to be undertaken immediately, will be a nation-wide canvass of relief needs and local resources for meeting them in all cities of 25,000 and over. This is to be followed in the fall by simultaneously conducted ed local fund-raising campaigns, under governmental sponsorship, and with the aid of a national committee of leading philanthropists and welfare leaders, in these communities. The secretary explained that the President's committee had under consideration a special relief plan for so-called "resourceless communities"—towns and regions in which local resources and organized welfare work are inadequate to meet the emergency.

Following Secretary Lamont's address the proposal of the President's committee was accepted on behalf of the Association of Community Chests and Councils by Frederic R. Kellogg of New York, treasurer, who presided over the conference in the absence of the president, J. Herbert Case, chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, who is convalescing after a recent illness. Mr. Kellogg said that within the next few days Mr. Case, in New York, would make public an amplified statement of the position of the association, to be followed as soon as possible by a detailed schedule of contemplated activities. A tentative plan was submitted for discussion by Allen T. Burns, executive director of the association, who said that the concerted fact-finding canvass and fund-raising campaigns would embrace 376 cities, having a population of 25,000 or more each. In 244 of these, he said, the work would be carried out by community chests, and in the remaining 132 the President's committee and the association would offer their services in setting up or co-ordinating emergency financing bodies.

Presents Prizes At Church Meet

Rev. Joshua Pleased With Result Of First Church Track Meet

Quite a tidy sum was realized last night at Taggart Field as the first annual New Castle church track field carnival was staged.

Rev. Clifford Joshua, pastor of the Croton M. E. church at the conclusion of the meet presented the various prizes to the winners. The prizes were lovely in nature and were donated by the merchants of New Castle and Erie.

In making the presentation speeches Rev. Joshua thanked the various churches for their competitive interest, and co-operation in making the meet such a success. The Dependable Bible Class of the Croton M. E. church sponsored the meet.

It was the first track meet of its kind ever held in New Castle and will not be the last according to the churchmen.

Valuable Land Sold For Taxes

DANVILLE, Pa., June 13.—To collect $1,135.55 due in taxes since 1929, 854 acres of land in Montour county has been sold by the county treasurer.

Title to the land, under the new state law, will not pass to purchasers, however, unless the back taxes remain unpaid for two years more.

Sea Scout Work Advancing Here

Troops Undertake New Line Of Scouting—May Switch Uniforms

TONER CHAIRMAN OF NEW DIVISION

It is expected that older Boy Scouts who are ready for Seascout work will shortly have an opportunity to take up this fascinating branch of the Boy Scout program. As several troops have been making arrangements to shift over certain of their older scouts into the blue and white of the seascouts. Scouts of first class rank, fifteen years and older, are eligible for this work.

It is possible for a Seascout to do this work right in his own troop, the only change in leadership necessary being the addition of an extra member to the troop committee, and the commissioning of a Mate—a junior leader eighteen years or older—who will head up the Seascout work in the troop and give it active direction, working under the troop scoutmaster, who becomes a skipper ex-officio.

Many boys do not see how it is possible to do Seascout work in a landlocked town or city, but nevertheless some of the best Seascout units in the country come from such places. In October, 1919, the local executive, H. G. Horton, then attached to the national council Seascout department, organized and invested the Seascout ship "Essex" at Maplewood, New Jersey—a community where the Seascouts had to go five miles by trolley to get on a river large enough to row on. Yet this ship in after years held the national flag ship honors for three years, and many of its Seascouts are now actually seeing service on ships the world around. The boy has a strong imagination, and will get much helpful information from Seascouting. It teaches swimming, life-saving, meteorology, seamanship, small boat handling, camping along shore, water expeditions, and later on, real work on real boats or ships on deep water.

The last week in July is when this region will hold a week's training for registered Seascouts and officials, at a camp near the naval academy at Annapolis. Each morning the campers will be taken to the great small boat harbor at Annapolis and, with the expert Navy instructors in charge, receive teaching methods in boats under oars and sail, seamanship and other branches of Seascouting common to all maritime life. The afternoons will be taken up with swimming and life-saving methods and races, with talks on bathing beach and waterfront layouts and with work put on by the Camping Department of the National Council. Evenings will see special ceremonies at campfires, together, and so on. The standing of Seascouting nationally is shown by the hearty support given it by the United States government.

William Toner is the chairman of Seascouting for this council, and he will shortly issue an official statement regarding the work here.

This work is another one of the branches of useful skills taught by the Boy Scout movement, and made possible to the boys of this community through the Community Chest.

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, June 13.—Park Avenue is going in for "Seven Day Handkerchiefs" each embroidered with the name of a day in the week. It's a tribute to woman's daintiness, I suppose, that on Tuesday she would not think of being seen carrying a handkerchief that was marked "Monday."

SO WHY WORRY?
"The public" chirps a book reviewer, with carefully developed smoothness, "never seems to get enough of the crude, elemental, with murder and crime. Is the present popularity of crime a re-er of appetites that can no longer be satiated in the normal way? The corner saloon must have taken up a great deal of the slack in this, it is no more. What, as a nation, has made us become toppers in melodrama?"

"Today, the old ten-twenty-third is innocuous parlor comedy where the brutalities that the retail crime, in fiction about murders, and motion pictures about gangsters and hi-jackers.

"And the odd thing is, the old plays and books contained a moral taught us that honesty was the best policy, that deceit never pays, that the villain invariably comes to a bad end. Today, we have not even the solace of a righteous impulse. Our best heroes are crooks."

It's been the same way, Brother, since the flash of a new-born sun first fell on Eden's green and gold; and doubtless it will still be in operation when "Gabe" steps out on that much advertised solo of his, announcing the Close of the Show.

TRAVELING WORMS

An angle-worm—the kind you used to dig in old Barlow's pasture—is worth money today. Two and one-half cents apiece, to be exact, did their own bait, have to buy it, and most of it comes from a little stall in Washington Market.

Fresh bait is an expensive luxury; and even as it is, to be widely separated places; so to the little market stall it comes from distant parts.

ONE MYSTERY SOLVED

A young man approached The Pastor's table in an old Italian garden on West 45th Street and offered to exhibit some card tricks.

"You have been imbibing," said The Pastor, scornfully.

"Yes," replied the young man, "I have been drinking, otherwise I would not be offering to show you my tricks without cost."

It developed that the young man's business is card tricks. His services may be rendered through a well known booking agency for your own home. Banquets, weddings, stage, intimate little gatherings of no more than a hundred or so, on Park Avenue—such affairs use his services with great frequency. He works nearly every night, without being shown up.

many nights filling more than one engagement.

"Society" is going in for card tricks in a big way—that's what's become of card tricks.

PESSIMIST

Lou J. Bacardi, the Rum Regent, breezed into town the other day, blue and disgusted. He says after looking the situation over from all angles, getting underneath it and peering up and down, he is convinced that prohibition of good liquors is here to stay.

"I would like to see it otherwise," says Lou, "but why—what you call it—'kid' yourself?"

At the present time despite the existing business unpleasantness and pouring out, over the world, 25,000 gallons of rum daily.

If the Eighteenth Commandment were repealed, the output would increase a thousand-fold.

"The repeal of prohibition," says the Rum Regent, "would result in an instantaneous and widespread return of prosperity. Wheat, malt, rye and sugar would find markets today denied. Tens of thousands of men would be employed—but, why go on dreaming. Is it said in the beginning I don't think the amendment will ever be repealed."

SALESMAN TELLS OF WEIRD HOLDUP

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, June 13.—A general broadcast was sent out today in an attempt to apprehend two men who, after riding as hitch-hikers with a salesman from Harrisburg to Turtle Creek, "shot" a charge of strychnine with a hypodermic needle into the driver's arm and stole his high-priced automobile, $135 in cash and a diamond stickpin.

The driver-victim, Jack Oppenheimer, 35, a Massachusetts salesman, was found in a stupor in the Braddock railroad station late yesterday. Police took Oppenheimer to the Braddock General hospital, where today physicians said he was suffering from strychnine poisoning.

The two hitch-hiker robbers had left their victim to wander in a semi-conscious state in the borough of Braddock.

According to detectives who questioned Oppenheimer today, the salesman left Harrisburg en route to Pittsburgh yesterday and picked up two youths. As they were coming into Turtle Creek, Oppenheimer said, he felt a sting in his left arm. He turned to see the youth in the rear seat withdrawing a hypodermic needle. A moment later he had lost consciousness.

Minnehaha Troop Has Annual Event

Girl Scout Troop Entertains
Mothers At Banquet Last Evening At Y. W.

Girl Scouts of Mrs. W. H. Hanger's Minnehaha Troop staged their annual Mothers' and Daughters' banquet Friday evening in the Green Room of the Y. W. C. A. Thirty-four troopsters and their mothers seated themselves at tables very attractively arranged and decorated in color tones of green and pink, with roses and orange blossoms in vases at the table ends.

It was another successful event for the troop which ranks among the best and most spirited troops of the city. The mothers enjoyed the banquet and program immensely.

Highlights of the program were the presentation of gold stars to Audrey Gilliland and Janet McClintock for perfect attendance, the presentation of silver stars to Georgia Parker, Mary Jane McClintock, Donna Jean Beall and Ruth Shale for 90 percent attendance at meetings.

Ruth Conner was voted the best Girl Scout of the troop. With this honor goes a week at the Girl Scout camp in August.

Sparks From New Castle Motor Club

MASSACHUSETTS LIBERALIZES LICENSE REQUIREMENTS FOR NON-RESIDENTS

Non-resident motorists in Massachusetts are no longer required to register their cars after 30 days, providing that the state in which the car is registered grants reciprocal privileges to Bay state cars, according to R. W. Bolsinger, president of the New Castle Motor club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile association.

Mr. Bolsinger pointed out, however, that after vehicles have been driven in the state for 30 days during the year the owner must show that he carries liability insurance.

Reciprocal privileges in Massachusetts, he said, results from a bill passed by the legislature amending existing laws, which required car owners to register their automobiles after 30 days. Specifically, the measure was designed to eliminate friction arising between Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New York.

"With respect to the requirements regarding liability insurance, the A. A. A. club executive cited the interpretation of the law by the registrar of motor vehicles for Massachusetts, as follows:

"Non-residents may make application in the mail or at any registry for a permit to operate as a non-resident beyond the 30-day period. They will be asked to answer questions on the application, fill out, giving their name and legal address, description of the vehicle, registration number, name of the company in which they are insured, amount of the face of the policy, expiration rate, etc. Such non-resident permit will be issued free of charge."

Company executives are naturally interested in the progress being made in developing efficient and safe drivers. They should be informed of this progress regularly. The basis of such reports is the accident record. Such reports should be concise and yet should cover the significant results.

Every accident, no matter how trivial, should be reported. As a rule drivers do not hesitate to report serious accidents. They should realize that from the standpoint of preventing accidents, it is also quite essential to report all minor accidents.

Twenty-seven per cent of all pedestrians killed were over 65 years of age; 32 per cent were children under 15 years.

Thirty-six per cent of the 103 cities had fewer deaths in April than in March.

The Chicago had more motor deaths in April than New York City.

A membership in the American Automobile association is assurance that you have at your command an inexhaustible supply of the world's finest travel service.

STOP THE LOSS TODAY!
You share the many benefits—have you helped to make them possible?

For 29 years the American Automobile association has been working to better conditions for the car owners of America, using its entire resources in protecting the motorists from burdensome taxation, unfair legislation and for the promotion of safety for motor travel on streets and highways, supplying services, savings and protection for the motorists.

DETOURS LIFTED
Coatesville detour has proved annoying by very lengthy duration and will be removed this week. Another troublesome run-around was in Greensburg, also to be lifted within the week.

That half-width stretch on the Lincoln, between Greensburg and Ligonier, at Youngstown, turns out to be a nasty stretch of rough riding as the old road was. It is hoped that this condition will be eliminated without delay.

Communists And Laborers Battle In Barcelona, Is Reported Today

(International News Service)
LONDON, June 13.—Renewed violence in Spain between communists and laborers was reported today in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Barcelona.

In that city many persons were wounded when rival organizations of communists and socialists fought a pitched battle in the workers' quarter.

In the province of Asturias, communists dynamited a workmen's train.

The trouble in Barcelona broke out when socialists decided to end a strike and return to work in the lumber yards. Communists bitterly opposed this decision.

The Golf Bug

The past several days has found the Municipal Golf course fairly well crowded. The golfers like lots of warm weather and sunshine, and the weatherman has supplied plenty.

There has been just enough rain this year to make the greens look like carpet. Not since the Muni has been opened, has the greens looked any better, and they are as smooth as glass. It's real fun putting on a first class green.

The wire for the fence around the caddy yard has arrived. The caddies at the "Muni" are well taken care of now, with a fine shelter house and yard. The boys are real proud of their new quarters.

The golfers are asked by Manager Walter Hart to refrain from jabbing the green with the pin or flag when removed from the hole for putting. Just lay the pin and flag down on the green, don't stand and jab the green with the sharp end of the pin.

The people still insist on playing golf with high heels and other heels such as Cuban-heels, and the like and that is strictly forbidden. Please do not ask to play at the "Muni" shoes in other than flat-heeled shoes or golf shoes.

A slow foursome should when asked allow a faster foursome to pass through. This courtesy is not being extended at the Municipal course as much as it should. Let's remember the little things about golf that help to better the game and conditions.

The ladies who play at the Municipal course are asked to turn in their score cards. A ladies' tourney is being planned.

Crowd Flocks To Swimming Pool

Over 300 At Pool At Shelby On Friday, Records Show

ELLWOOD CITY, June 13.—No notice was necessary to inform children that the Shelby Playground Swimming Pool was open according to indications Thursday afternoon. As usual the morning session was not very well attended having 17 boys and 12 girls in the water at the different periods. But the afternoon session was a different matter. Combining the two periods the boys were in makes a total of 119. There were 54 girls present at their period of the day bringing the total for the day up to 202. Friday's total was 301.

Plans are under way to organize girls and boys swimming teams as of last year for active water competition. Little swimming and diving meets were held nearly every day last year and the same plan is expected to be carried out this year. The children derive much satisfaction from these sports.

Arrangements have been completed to conduct Junior Life Saving examinations in the pool. Classes will be organized and directed by life guard, Fred Robuck and the examination will be given by Johnny B. Wilson, Red Cross Life-Saving Examiner.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stock Prices Vary; Market Dull Today

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, June 13.—A reactionary movement in a dull week-end session today, with moderate profit-taking in the general run of the recent market favorites proved sufficient to bring about fairly good sized losses in most sections of the list.

Leading carriers ran into extensive selling on the overnight announcement that the consolidation program for Eastern Trunk lines would be presented for the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission within the next ten days.

This development in conjunction with the progress made in pushing the campaign for higher rates served to explain the recent substantial advances in Rail stocks, and occasioned considerable selling on the theory that the good news was out.

The widest declines in this group were sustained in Atchison which slumped 3 1/2 points to 156; Union Pacific off 3 1/4 at 159; New York Central off 1 at 88 1/2; Chesapeake and Ohio off 1 1/4 at 35 1/2; and Pennsylvania off 1 at 50 1/2.

U. S. Steel led the industrial group downward with a dip of 1 1/2 points at 90. Westinghouse lost 1 1/2 points at 61 1/2; American Can was off about a point at 102 1/2; Bethlehem Steel dropped 1/4 at 44; and General Electric was 1/2 lower at 39.

Traction stocks were quite strong on the report that the unification plan was reaching a settlement. Brooklyn Manhattan Transit jumped 2 1/2 points to 62 1/2; Interborough moved up 1 1/2 to 25 1/2; and Manhattan Railway Modified was 1 point higher at 35 1/2.

The Utility group gave way rather sharply in spots due mainly to lack of near-by demand rather than to any unusually heavy selling pressure. American Telephone sagged 1 1/2 points to 168 1/2; North American dropped 1 1/2 to 63 1/2; Standard Gas was off 1 1/2 at 61 1/2; and losses of somewhat less than a point were sustained in Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas and Electric and United Corporation.

Auburn rallying briskly from its early low at 162 to 168 for a net gain of 1 1/2 points over its previous close. Other motor shares held fairly steady, with Chrysler in particular reflecting persistent demand.

Oils, Coppers, and Amusements were in the main inclined to follow the general price trend downward, although losses in these groups were of unimportant proportions. Turnover was unusually dull. Commodity markets were quiet, with Cotton and Wheat holding steady.

WORKERS DIG SOLID ROCK 2000 FEET TO LAY NEW GAS MAIN

D. W. Brown, district No. 3 agent of the Manufacturers Light & Heat Company, said today the work of laying 6,500 feet of six-inch low compression gas line from Wampum and to Cheynton at a cost of $7,000, was completed today.

One of the high lights of the project which took 35 men three weeks to finish was a bed of solid rock which the men encountered in placing the line. Due to the close location of a cement highway they could not blast for fear of damaging the road. To overcome the difficulty workers employed high compression hammers and knocked away at the solid rock for a distance of 2,000 feet.

Bill Regan, rated not hot enough to play regularly in the American league, is having the laugh on his erstwhile big league boss, Bill, since the Pittsburgh Pirates entrusted him with the guardianship of second base, has been playing great baseball. In a recent series, he twice knocked in the winning run.

Johnny Evers recently scouted his son, Johnny, Jr., for the Boston Braves, which club employs the ex-Cub infield star, as a squire.

The season was two months old, or nearly so, before the Athletics lost a game to a western American league club. When they lost to the Chicago White Sox, 7-5, the A's string of 14 straight wins over western clubs, Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, and Detroit—was ended.

Chuck Klein, who with Buzz Arlett, leads the Philly hitters, gets twice as much as Buzz. Chuck draws $15,000.

Here are a few reasons the Detroit Tigers have flopped: Dale Alexander, spiked leg; Harvey Walker, wrenched collar bone; Charlie Gehring, torn ligament; John Stone, bruises from collision with a wall; Marvin Owen, twisted ankle, and so on and on.

A statistician has figured that Yankee southpaws have a winning average of nearly .700 while the right handers have broken even.

Ivan Olson, one of the toasts of Flatbush when he was playing ball for Brooklyn, have more than made good as third base coach of the Robins this season. Olson is credited with having put much pep into the outfit, and has proven one of the most successful baseline assistants the Robins have ever had.

Scout Patrols Preparing Today For Elimination Affair At Camp

Monday afternoon to Tuesday morning, June 15 and 16, the various scout camping patrols of Lawrence county troops will assemble at Camp Phillips along the Slippery Rock creek to take part in the annual Camping Jamboree. This event is an overnight camping program conducted by the patrol leaders of each representative patrol and is the best method known to day for teaching real outdoor camping work.

The scout patrol troops competing are asked to be on hand at Camp Phillips by 4 o'clock, the inspection of the troop patrols will start at that time. Patrols will then be assigned sites on which they will pitch camp set up cooking arrangements and prepare for their programs. Judges will inspect their work at frequent intervals, making deductions from a perfect 1000 points, as the work progresses.

Plan Problem Work.

Each patrol will put on its own campfire and conduct its own activities. Certain problem work will be introduced at various times, testing the scout's knowledge of second and first class work. The entire event is put on by the boys themselves, under their respective patrol leaders.

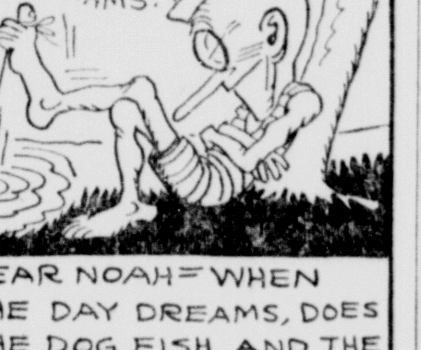

Troop scoutmasters, assistants and other scouts may attend, but cannot coach the teams. Teams making a final score of 850 points or better will be rated as "standard", and will be eligible to attend the regional jamboree at Rock Creek park, Washington, D. C. if their committees can arrange transportation for them. (The regional camping patrols who attend will be photographed with President Hoover at the White House, and will be able to tour the city of Washington.) ## Rock Pile Delays Work Of Driving Hole Under Road

County Commissioner P. O. Elder reports that a pile has been successfully installed under the improved road in front of the parsonage at Plaingrove. The job, however, proved more difficult than anticipated. Work was started boring under the road with a 12-inch augur. It was progressing nicely when the augur struck a pile of stones that had been placed in the roadbed in the days of mud roads. The augur had to be abandoned and a special tool made with a sharp point. A man then crawled into the hole and guided this bit against the rock as it was battered out. It took four days to get the hole through. The job could have been done in less than a day had the stone pile not been struck.

Adequate, Varied Diet Necessary For Health

Clendening Points Out

Variety In Meals Means Proper Proportions Of Starch, Fat, Protein And Sufficient Minerals

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Your diet should be sufficient and varied. There is, I will admit, nothing very profound in that remark. But in plain language it states all the fundamental principles of modern dietetic science.

Most of us fulfill the "sufficient" part of the requirement. In fact, after middle age most of us more than fulfill it. And much of the advice that dietitians keep giving us is on this ground.

Variety means proper proportions of starch, fat and protein. What those proper proportions are was discussed yesterday. But it also means getting a sufficient amount of the minerals—especially salt, iron, calcium, phosphorus and sulphur—and the accessory food factors now called vitamins. For the adult who eats a good variety of food—cereals, eggs, milk, green vegetables, fruit, meat, bread, butter, yeast, cream—some cooked food and some raw—this requirement takes care of itself. In other words, an adult who eats an ordinary breakfast, frequently includes cereal, raw fruit and an egg, and a lunch and dinner with soup, meat and vegetable courses, salad and dessert, gets both a sufficient and a varied diet, enough to satisfy all his nutritional needs.

It is not so certain that babies and children will get all of these things under ordinary feeding conditions. Mothers' milk, from a healthy mother who herself is eating a properly varied diet, will usually be adequate in all the vitamins, but not necessarily, and it is the usual custom to add orange juice and cod liver oil to all babies' diets in order to supply the most important of the vitamins, the anti-scurvy vitamins in orange juice and the anti-rickets vitamin in cod liver oil.

Babies and children need to have their food assured of vitamin content more than adults because vitamins are needed for growth and development, not only of the whole body, but of special parts, such as teeth.

Of late, manufacturers have been putting many vitamins up in concentrated form. One such product called "Vosterol" is manufactured by many drug firms, and can be purchased at any drug store. It has the same vitamin as cod liver oil, D, and most of these products also contain vitamin A, which seems to help protect against infection as well as protect against a serious form of eye disease which occurs if vitamin A is absent from the baby's diet. Most vosterols are made from corn oil and not from cod liver oil.

Vitamin B is also put up in special concentrated form. Such concentrates are made in most instances from seeds of cereals—cereal embryo, vitamin B, as originally classified, has been subdivided into several vitamins, B1 and B2 and G. It is known to be necessary in itself and also because it appears to help the other vitamins do their work. Thus Hoobler says, "One should be careful not to overdose with cod liver oil and Vosterol unless at the same time an increasing quantity of vitamin B is also added to the diet."

Everything known at present indicates that these concentrated vitamins act efficiently.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Big Problem Is To Live As We Ought

Prophet Is Checked Up, In Home Town, Myers Finds

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D. Head Division, Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

Many of my readers have been kind enough to write me saying I am sympathetic. I hope I deserve this commendation. Nothing I wish more to deserve. If I really appear to be sympathetic it may be no real compliment to me. Maybe it is an unconscious wish I have of self-protection. You know I have children of my own whom I often annoy and who I fear sometimes annoy other people. Naturally people check up on me, curious to learn if I practice what I preach, and to know whether my doctrine on rearing children works. Particularly is there likely to be numerous checking right in my home city where I teach, and, from which have come more than a thousand parents to my university classes.

Just to know one is likely to be checked on makes one a little nervous sometimes. Well, I do save myself from some embarrassment by deliberately admitting many of my own frailties. (Of course I always keep some in reserve.) To do so gives me emotional relief. Therefore, if I seem to be sympathetic it probably is because I am continually aware of the gap between what I preach and what I practice.

After all, the big task, as a mother lately wrote me, is to live with our children, as we know we ought to live, and to do what we ought to do.

For this reason I often envy those people who, not parents themselves, write wisely and speak wisely to parents; and I honestly believe many of them do it very well. See what emotional conflicts they escape!

For my children's sake I should add that to date, I am not ashamed of their conduct, though they obviously might be a good deal better. They do seem to be pretty happy, and to my knowledge, they have not voluntarily annoyed other people or disturbed their property. Of course, they have a good mother. But for her influence it is hard to tell what they might have been, and neither of us are absolutely sure about their future. We just hope, and pray for their children, that they will turn out well.

If I can see many of the successes of their mother with them, and keep my eyes upon the successful ways of other mothers and fathers I observe. I ought to be able to pass along an occasional good suggestion to you. What I try to do is to stand off as another person looking at myself, and as a disinterested observer watching other parents. (Not easy to do.)

Sometimes I get angry when I see other parents do what seems to me to be stupid things with their children. But when I become more objective and try to put myself into the place of those parents and imagine how it happened that they acted as they did, I grow more charitable. I wish I might some day attain a level of charity where I would never even pass silent judgment in the form of condemnation of any fellow parent, but that at such moments when I might be tempted to do so, I would be able to feel entirely in that parent's place long enough to understand the whole situation.

I am coming more and more to the conclusion that parents are not helped much by telling them what attitudes, habits and achievements they ought to effect in their children, but rather by showing them in as great detail as possible the ways by which they might be able to get the results they think they should get, or the likelihood of their attaining the goals they are striving to attain.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two pamphlets by Dr. Myers are obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Garry C. Myers, in care of ation, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Punishments and Rewards," and "Fear."

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Some cities are known to tourists by their parks system, others by their water facilities and still others by something else. New Castle is rapidly getting known to tourists from other states because of its municipal golf course, and every week sees more foreign cars parked out at the club house.

All of which is an interesting commentary upon a venture which a couple of years ago drew considerable scoffing from those who believed such a course would rank among the bigger and better flops. New Castle didn't need a municipal golf course any more than it needed steam heat for the public square, they argued, but the answer is written out at the course every afternoon in hundreds of cars, and a swarm of men and women playing.

As we look back now at the birth of the idea, it is no heresy to say that some of the councilmen were not sure in their own minds that the idea would hit fire. It was a long chance, but they took it because of the silver tongues of some local citizens who were gifted with far sighted vision. These gentlemen were willing to put their time and abilities in, and to add more than that to the muny course, and council finally succumbed to their wishes.

It was a job, putting the course in shape, a job that brought out Volunteer engineers, loans of equipment and gradually the old Poor Farm began to take shape as a golf course. From the very first the thing clicked and has been clicking ever since, more than paying its own way, costing the taxpayers not a dime, and providing a form of recreation that spells health and happiness.

When you know all the facts concerning the municipal golf course, it stands out as a shining example of what can be done with a little cooperation. The investment of the city in the project was comparatively small, yet today the course is worth about $75,000.

It takes five years to make a golf course but the local one is far ahead of the schedule. Here and there it is still a bit rough in places, out when you remember how long it takes for the average course to get smoothed out, the condition is remarkable. The wonder is, not that there are a few rough spots, but that there aren't three times as many.

Outsiders are talking about the New Castle Municipal Golf Course, talking about it favorably and driving many miles to play on it. All they know is that it is a beautiful course, full of natural hazards, but not too sporting for the average amateur to play. Here in New Castle we know it as an outstanding piece of civic enterprise in which the citizens joined hands with the municipal government, where every movement was forward, where success has capped a piece of deserving work.

There was really not much excuse for talking golf in this department today, except for the fact that at the lunch table every day, there is nothing else talked. Lawyers used to talk about briefs, and structural iron workers talked about stresses and strains. Now they both talk golf.
